You (your child) will be participating in an activity that could include contact with ocean and/or bay waters. Southern Californian ocean and bay waters are very clean most of the time as indicated by water quality testing. Long-term postings currently exist to advise the public of storm drain outlets and possible risks associated with contamination from urban runoff at Baby Beach in Dana Point Harbor and Doheny State Beach. If there is any change in the water quality which necessitates a closure of these waters, there may be an adjustment to the planned program content as described in the facility brochure due to the impacts of these water quality issues.

I have read and understand the above.
